

STAT 681 Overview

This is a self-paced course where you watch posted videos. The videos are in no particular order with respect to importance, or theory vs application.

Even though self-paced, student must finish viewing all the videos and have final posts by deadline set forth.

The course is a pass/fail (S/U) course thus there will be no exams or quizzes or homework.

After watching each video, post comments to the appropriate discussion board which should include a discussion of what you found interesting in the seminar or what was confusing about the material in the seminar.
